Shareholder Update - April 6, 2006

April 6, 2006

Dear Namex Shareholders and Interested Parties,

As you will read in this update, Namex's management has been planning what may prove to be a very exciting 2006 exploration season.

Last month during The Prospectors and Developers Convention (PDAC) in Toronto, Namex's management was interviewed. To watch this interview, visit www.namex-explorations.com and go to the home page just under the map where you will see listed NEW (in red) PDAC' 06. Click on that message and you will see Oliver Maki, Director and Chief Geologist, Dr. Mark Fedikow, Director and Vice President of Explorations and the undersigned discussing Namex's activities and its project plans for the 2006 exploration season.

Just below O.T.'s management interview listing is a listing for an interview with Watts, Griffis & McOuat Ltd's President, Joe Hinzer. Watts, Griffis is Namex's third party consultant and author of Namex's recently completed 43-101, a 170 page due diligence report.

The 43-101 is a document required by Canada's regulatory authorities for public mineral companies to help prevent future frauds such as Bre-X. What is Regulation 43-101 and who are Watts, Griffis? Click on the interview. You will be very glad you did. Were I able to make it a requirement to view, I would, as I believe that listening to Joe Hinzer is important to you as shareholders, not only in Namex but also in any public mineral company.

Today's update is the first in a planned series of updates designed to inform and educate Namex's shareholders and those interested parties about the properties, their mineralization and the planned exploration programs.

Please e-mail me with any thoughts or questions you may have.

Sincerely yours,

James W. Hess, President
